The Rocket Blog

A blog about anything related to rockets and space technology from news to how to make your own propellant.

Sunday, August 12, 2012

How to make potassium chlorate - An another way

Making potassium perchlorate could be done by electrolysis of sodium chloride through the chlorate, and finally the double decomposition wit...

1 comment:

Monday, August 6, 2012

Curiosity touched down the Martian soil

What an amazing news : Curiosity, the rover the size of a 4x4 has finally touched down the martian soil at 5h31 GMT after 8 months travelin...

Friday, July 27, 2012

How to make a lead dioxide electrode for perchlorate synthesis

Here is a way I use to make my lead dioxide electrode Lead dioxide forms on pure lead in dilute sulfuric acid. It use the same electrolysi...

Monday, July 23, 2012

Preparing the electrolyte for the process

Preparing fresh electrolyte First, prepare a saturated solution of sodium chloride. Take about 40 grams for every 100 ml of solution and bri...

Friday, July 20, 2012

The electrode for making perchlorate

The range of suitable electrode materials is very limited. Especially the anode material is critical. The positive charge on the anode promo...

2 comments:

Tuesday, July 17, 2012

How to make ammonium perchlorate : electrolysis

As I told you earlier, ammonium perchlorate (AP) is not available in all countries. Here is a way to make it. First, AP is made by electr...

22 comments:

Friday, July 13, 2012

How to make nitrocellulose

Nitrocellulose, also known as gun-cotton, is like black powder but more powerful and smokeless. It is a bit more delicate to make than the...

1 comment:

Home ›

View web version

ABOUT ME

Unknown

View my complete profile

Powered by Blogger.